License and Updates

This guide explains how licensing and automatic updates work.

What the License Key Does

The license key enables automatic plugin updates.

It does not change how Cloudflare Stream playback works. It only affects licensing and update delivery.

Where to Manage It

Open:

`Media > Cloudflare Stream > License`

If the plugin is network-activated in multisite, the license is managed in:

`Network Admin > Settings > Stream Integration Pro`

Activate a License

1. Enter your license key.
2. Click `Activate`.
3. Wait for the page to refresh and show the current status.

If the license is valid, the plugin will show a success message and, when available, the expiration date.

Deactivate a License

If the current license is already active, the button changes to `Deactivate`.

Use this when you want to remove the current site or network from that license.

License Key Storage

If the license key is entered in the admin UI:

- it is stored encrypted in the database

If the license key is defined in configuration:

- the UI is locked or hidden
- the database copy is not used

Config-Managed Licenses

You can centrally manage the license key in configuration.

When that is done:

- end users do not need to activate it manually
- the license UI is hidden or locked
- updates still use the configured key

Troubleshooting Licensing

Common reasons activation can fail:

- invalid license key
- expired license
- site URL is not allowed for the key
- license server temporarily unavailable

If you keep seeing licensing errors, check:

Multisite Licensing

When the plugin is network-activated:

- the network admin manages the shared license
- the plugin uses the network context for licensing and updater requests
- subsites do not manage licensing independently
